NEW NORTH VANCOUVER REGIONAL ASSEMBLY LOCATION OPENS

Slung Suspended Systems Corp., a custom crafter of large and heavy top hung doors, and movable wall systems announced the establishment of their first Regional Assembly Location in North Vancouver, BC. to serve the British Columbia and Pacific North West of the United States.

Slung! builds very large and heavy doors for residential, institutional and hospitality use. However, a dedication to quality finish and craftsmanship and a board-level commitment has led to greater than typical entry level and trained-for-position employment potentials for females in the Slung! workforce.

Slung! technical and design expertise is centralized nationally whilst production requirements are met through Regional Assembly Locations that craft all SLUNG!'s custom installation assemblies. Economies and efficiency in freight, quality assurance and client response is further ensured by sourcing glazing and the provision of site service and installation locally through SLUNG! Registered Agents and Installation Partners.

“In this way, we are able to focus our significant investment in our talent, dies, tools and quality assurance equipment where economies can best be generated and yet, we also deliver regionally responsive assembly and local installation services”, says Dal Brickenden, Director of Strategy and Communications at Slung! He continued, “This location will be followed by several other Regional Assembly Locations, as demanded by volume which we already see building in the south and the east.”
