Slung! Reaches New Heights in Downtown Vancouver Penthouse

Vancouver, B.C. – December 20th, 2007 – Slung Suspended System Corp. is pleased to announce its recent installation of numerous, large sliding glass wall systems in a 26th-27th floor Vancouver penthouse, which is currently listed on the market for $18.2 Million (CDN). The address has since become synonymous in the Vancouver real estate marketplace with luxury, unique architecture and the upper echelon of interior design.

The installation of the moveable glass walls in this landmark penthouse is a testament to the ingenuity behind the design of the Slung Suspended Systems. The huge glass panels allow for the panoramic views to be enjoyed year round, as Vancouver's weather does not permit for the doors to be open twelve months of the year. The million dollar views, which owners pay for, are still worth a million dollars when the systems are closed. The size of the glass panels, up to eighty square foot leaf sizes, allows for loads of light to make its way into the penthouse, which has impacts of interior design freedoms and making unique furnishings available, which complement the natural lighting. With four of the main rooms clad in backlit translucent white onyx, the surplus of natural light plays a role in accenting these rooms and truly bringing them to life.

Slung's ability to handle enormous weights allow for the sliding glass wall systems to be easily and smoothly moved. The weight carry capability was extremely important in the penthouse because on the 26th and 27th floor, the glass was subjected to constant high wind pressure. The glass has been installed for two years now without leakage or breakage, even during an extreme windstorm of December 2006, which felled hundreds of trees in the surrounding area. The glass withstanding these constant wind pressures is essential because of the premium, hardwood flooring directly adjacent to the doors.

Acclaimed designer Omer Arbel redesigned the interior prior to it being placed on the market, making every aspect of the Penthouse a unique and modern experience.

The addition of these Slung's sliding glass wall systems to the penthouse completed what was an already spectacular residence. The huge moveable glass panels on the 26th and 27th floor create a living environment unparalleled in the downtown core of Vancouver. Free flowing spaces are created when the Slung Systems are open and the amazing views are still breathtaking when closed. The engineering and design, coupled with the customization involved, truly makes these large glass doors a sight to be marveled at.
